Either a midwives hand or a babies head? This image is still floating around on Instagram on pages that have shared it, please let it stay in my feed too, as its my image.*

Please keep this image here, please don't report it, it is birth, it is natural, it is beautiful. Look at this gorgeous squishy baby half born earthside, with amniotic fluid dripping from his nose (this photo has been flipped and cropped on the hope no one can find it offensive) Birthed at home by his amazingly strong mama, 🌟 One from the archives - Shared with permission by the parents.

«thank you @instagram for providing me with the exact response my work was created to critique. you deleted a photo of a woman who is fully covered and menstruating stating that it goes against community guidelines when your guidelines outline that it is nothing but acceptable. the girl is fully clothed. the photo is mine. it is not attacking a certain group. nor is it spam. and because it does not break those guidelines i will report it again. i will not apologize for not feeding the ego and pride of misogynist society that will have my body in underwear but not be okay with a small leak. when your pages are filled with countless photo/accounts where woman (so many who are underage) are objectified. pornified. and treated less than human. thank you.

this image is a part of my photoseries project for my visual rhetoric course. you can view the full series at rupikaur.com the photos were shot by myself and @prabhkaur1 (and no. the blood. is not real.)

i bleed each month to help make humankind a possibility. my womb is home to the divine. a source of life for our species. whether i choose to create or not. but very few times it is seen that way. in older civilizations this blood was considered holy. in some it still is. but a majority of people. societies. and communities shun this natural process. some are more comfortable with the pornification of women. the sexualization of women. the violence and degradation of women than this. they cannot be bothered to express their disgust about all that. but will be angered and bothered by this. we menstruate and they see it as dirty. attention seeking. sick. a burden. as if this process is less natural than breathing. as if it is not a bridge between this universe and the last. as if this process is not love. labour. life. selfless and strikingly beautiful.»

However, there is a real danger. If it is public that you have a BlackBerry and it is government and you are using it, government or not, to do business, it may become an official record and subject to the law. Reading about the President's BB rules this morning, it sounds like it won't be as useful as it used to be. Be very careful. I got around it all by not saying much and not using systems that captured the data.

Due to the convenience, affordability, and broad reach of social media platforms such as YouTube, Facebook and Twitter, terrorist groups have increasingly used social media to further their goals and spread their message. Attempts have been made by various governments and agencies to thwart the use of social media by terrorist organizations.

The left sidebar includes options like Dashboard, Video Manager, Live Streaming, Community, Channel, Analytics, Translations & Subtitles, Create (with sub-options for Audio Library and Music Policies), Your Contributions, Help and Feedback, and YouTube Studio Beta. The main content area displays a list of songs with their current policies:

A Thousand Years	Christina Perri
The Pink Panther Theme	Henry Mancini and his Orchestra
Thinking Out Loud	Ed Sheeran

See You Again (feat. Charlie Puth)	Wiz Khalifa
Stressed Out	Twenty One Pilots
Oihua a Explosio	MC Keemho

A note at the bottom states: "This song is not available for use in your YouTube video. If you use this song, your video may be blocked or muted." A link to "Learn more" is provided.

This screenshot shows the same 'Music Policies' section as the first one, but it provides more detailed information for each song. For example, for 'The Pink Panther Theme', it shows that playback is viewable worldwide and advertising is allowed. For 'Thinking Out Loud', it shows that playback is viewable worldwide and advertising is allowed. A note at the bottom states: "Copyright owners can change their policies or take action on your video if it differs from what's described here. Learn more".

In some countries, YouTube is completely blocked, either through a long term standing ban or for more limited periods of time such as during periods of unrest, the run-up to an election, or in response to upcoming political anniversaries.
